The Wrong Hoof

Farm Conversion

Now about that report of some folks in Texas selling horsemeat for beef — it's no bull.

The course of events in the Manchester, N. H., trial finally climaxed "mercy killing" as a specific issue — Dr. Herman N. Sander reversing himself by swearing that the cancer patient was actually dead before he administered the fatal air injection.

Therefore the doctor's acquittal of a murder charge, as reported last night, is in no sense a legal decision one way or the other on the question whether a physician, the patient's family, or any other person on earth, has the right to decide whether one suffering from an incurable ailment shall be put away quickly.

Men, in their humane consideration of suffering animals, do certain things; and they have their secret thoughts when confronted by similar situations among human beings. But they are thoughts better left unsaid — and unthought.

Man, who does not know the secret of life, is prohibited likewise from interfering with his fellow man's manner of dying. It is the tradition, the judgment, the law — and there can be no debate on it.

The world sympathizes with that New England country doctor — but that he had an unwise tongue will also be remembered.

Another 2 1/2 million dollars in disaster crop loans will be made available to Arkansas farmers, it was announced yesterday by Senator John L. McClellan and Governor Sid McMath.

This special aid for farmers damaged in last summer's bad season will be managed by the Farmers Home Administration — but I am wondering if our section and the whole Cotton South don't need a long range program to take care of the basic agricultural conversion problem which is now facing us.

Cotton is being cut back prohibitively, and permanently; therefore farm families whose whole tradition and knowledge is based on cotton, must learn something new — and try it.

Any such transition involves additional investment, risk, and possible loss — at the beginning. The farmers need more risk capital than is available in any agricultural section. And government is justified in considering a program to help farmers over this rough spot in the economic road.

Hope, Subject of Broadcast This Sunday

Hope will be featured in a non-commercial broadcast at 1:45 o'clock this Sunday afternoon, March 12, over a network of 11 Arkansas radio stations, including KXAR of Hope.

It is the Meyer's Bakery public service program called "This Is Your Town." Charles Meyer, Jr., writes The Star as follows:

"We have inaugurated a series of broadcasts to be presented each Sunday afternoon in which we will bring to the attention of a large segment of our citizenry the advantages, the record of progress and accomplishment of one of the major communities in the territory we now serve.

"We are featuring a different Arkansas city on each weekly program, which will be broadcast simultaneously in Texarkana, Hope, Magnolia, Little Rock, Hot Springs, Blytheville, Newport, Jonesboro, Helena, Stuttgart, and Pine Bluff. Eleven Arkansas stations will carry the story of an awakened Arkansas under the title 'This Is Your Town.'

"We have set the date of Sunday, March 12, as the day on which we will tell the story of Hope, and we invite your co-operation in bringing this broadcast to the attention of the citizens of your city.

"Please understand this will not be a commercial program as far as we are concerned. We are offering it merely as a public service and in sincere gratitude to the many fine communities whose loyalty to our products has enabled us to build the fine business we now enjoy throughout the area we serve.

"We hope that Hope will derive real benefit from this program that is to be presented about Hope on Sunday, March 12, at 1:45 p. m., over Station KXAR.

"Yours very truly
"CHARLES MEYER, JR."

Robber Surrenders Jewels Stolen From Showman

New York, March 10 — (P) — Billy Rose, the showman, night club owner and Broadway columnist, is the star of his latest production.

He personally got back part of his $25,000 worth of stolen jewels yesterday — and one of the men who took them.

Rose was sitting in his office in the Ziegfeld theater building at 16th avenue and 54th street when Joseph Vitulano introduced himself.

He said he was one of the four men who looted the Rose mansion Jan. 28 while Billy and his wife, the former Eleanor Holm, were at a Broadway opening.

Black Walks to His Death Singing Hymn

By HARLEY PERSHING

Tucker Prison Farm, Ark., March 10 — (P) — Thomas Edwin Black, convicted nurse slayer, died in the state's electric chair at 7:07 a.m. today.

The 29-year-old Little Rock automobile mechanic entered the execution chamber softly singing a hymn, "I Thank You Jesus, I Thank You Lord." He wore a blue sports shirt, brown sports slacks and brown shoes.

He was strapped in the chair at 7 a. m. and was pronounced dead seven minutes later.

Thus ended a long legal fight to save the ex-serviceman's life — a battle that lasted until 4 p. m. yesterday, when his volunteer attorneys finally abandoned their efforts.

Black twice had received stays as appeals were made to the United States and Arkansas Supreme courts and to Gov. Sid McMath. But all declined to intervene.

Black's victim was Betty Jane McCall, 25. She was strangled near her home on Sept. 28, 1948, after visiting a night club with Black.

After the execution, witnessed by official witnesses and newspapermen, the body of Black was turned over to the Boule Funeral home of nearby Sheridan. Funeral plans haven't been announced.

Black ate the condemned man's traditional last meal last night, and it was a big one. The fare included venison, quail and fresh strawberries — which he shared with four other inmates of the death house.

Black said he was "ready to die" and had made "peace with the Master." He joined the Baptist church following his accusation of the murder of Miss McCall. Two ministers and his brother visited him yesterday, and he prayed with each of them.

Black's father, Ernest, who resides in Ridgecrest, Calif., was unable to come here to see his son.

Penitentiary officials said Black had agreed that cornets of his eyes should be removed after death for benefit to blind or partially blind persons. Several men in Arkansas in recent years have made such donations.

The death of Miss McCall she was employed at the Fort Roots Veterans hospital near Little Rock and formerly had resided at Texarkana came to light when Black drove with her battered body to the Little Rock police headquarters. An autopsy disclosed she had died of strangulation.

At his trial in Little Rock in December, 1948, Black testified Miss McCall bit his hand after they quarreled on their first date in her automobile and that he struck her, accidentally killing her. The state contended he beat and choked the nurse to death in rapid succession.

The fight to save Black was extended.

The State supreme court yesterday rejected pleas of Black's volunteer attorneys Joe W. McCoy and W. H. Glover of Malvern on two counts.

The court turned down an appeal from a lower court order refusing a new sanity hearing for Black and it refused to pave the way for a new trial on the basis of newly-discovered evidence.

The attorneys returned shortly afterward with a new petition to take the record to the U. S. Supreme court on grounds that Black had been denied his constitutional rights. This also was rejected.

Finally, they went to Federal Judge Thomas C. Trimble asking for a writ of habeas corpus to permit them to file a petition in the U. S. Supreme court. Another refusal ensued. Said the judge: "I do not think that injustice would be committed if he (Black) pays for his crimes."

The State Supreme court earlier had said the justices were "agreed that the defendant has had every legal recourse to which the law entitles him and that the record is without error."

The court recalled that Black had been found sane by state hospital physicians before his trial. It said an examination of the record disclosed no trace of the mental deficiency claimed for him.

Mercy Slayer Found 'Not Guilty' by Jury

Candia, N. H., March 10 — (P) —

Dr. Hermann N. Sander — quickly acquitted of a murder charge in the "mercy" death of a cancer patient — is coming home today to the people who swear by him.

The 41-year old country doctor took a "night off" after a Hillsboro county jury returned a verdict in little more than an hour late yesterday.

With his pretty, smiling wife on his arm, "Herm", as his intimates call him, pushed his way through a cheering crowd outside the county court in Manchester, 12 miles from here, shortly before 5 p. m.

They stepped into an automobile and were whisked into brief seclusion. Pursuing cars soon were outdistanced, but the word got around late last night the Sanders will be home today.

Louis E. Wyman, 71-year-old defense counsel, after embracing Dr. Sander in a touching courtroom scene, declared that he felt "the evidence in the case justified the verdict." It was his first murder case in half a century of practice.

"I don't feel the part I played was as important as some people say it was," he told newsmen.

Reginald Borroto, husband of Abbie Borroto — the woman Dr. Sander was charged with killing by air injections — said the acquittal was "the most heart warming news I have ever received."

"I don't know if I can express any happier thoughts than that," Borroto, retired oil salesman, said he was "too emotionally upset" to go to the courthouse yesterday. He talked with Dr. Sander soon after the verdict was returned.

Borroto said he and his 19-year-old daughter, Elise, were visiting the Sander home here when the doctor telephoned.

"As always," Borroto said, "his concern was for us. He asked how I was and then asked for Elsie. 'Then he said, 'there's going to be quite a crowd out at your house and my advice to you both is you had better go home.'"

From the outset, Borroto had expressed hope that the young physician would be acquitted.

A Harvard pathologist, who testified Mrs. Borroto did not die of air injections, said he was "delighted" with the verdict.

Dr. Richard F. Ford, 35-year-old head of the Harvard Medical school department of legal medicine and the defense's key witness, said:

"I am delighted an American jury will not convict a man on word of mouth, unsupported by thorough investigation, when it's a charge of murder."

Miss Elizabeth Rose, the nurse who saw Dr. Sander make the air injections, said she was "glad it's all over with."

Asked if she was surprised by the verdict, the state's star witness replied:

"I didn't know how it was going to come out. Her testimony was the cornerstone of the state's case. The pretty 24-year-old young woman testified that she heard Mrs. Borroto utter a 'loud gasp' as Dr. Sander injected a hypodermic needle into her arm."

Benefit Program Saturday Night at Washington

Johnny Bales and the West Virginia Home folks will give a program in the Washington gymnasium at 7:30 p. m., Saturday, March 11.

The program will feature sacred songs and all kinds of music and entertainment. Along with the Bales Bros. will be Shot Jackson, Little Don Davis, Dalton Henderson, Abner Abernathy.

The public is invited to this benefit program.

AID RUSHED TO STARVING FARM FAMILIES — Mrs. Charlie Morgan, left, watches her husband, a one-legged farm worker, feed their five children from a box of rations that were rushed in by county juvenile authorities at Phoenix, Arizona, to aid families reportedly starving in a farm labor camp about fourteen miles west of Phoenix. State Co-op Opposes Suit Against A & P

A resolution passed by the Arkansas Farm Bureau Poultry Cooperative, Inc., condemns the current anti-trust suit against A & P Food Stores as a threat to poultry producers and consumers.

Copies of the resolution sent to President Truman, Gov. Sidney McMath, and Arkansas senators and congressmen, point out that the attempt to break up A & P is "contrary to the intent and purpose of the anti-trust laws of the United States."

The poultrymen also state that the suit would "tend to destroy" A & P's "effective marketing organization by reducing its outlets for poultry." This would have an injurious effect on the Arkansas poultry industry and increase the price of poultry to consumers, the resolution states.

The cooperative praised A & P for assisting the poultry industry during times of over-supply and glutted markets. The company's fair price standard, prompt payment policy and broad system of distribution have "made it one of our most valuable customers," the message states.

In closing, the resolution requests "representatives and senators in Washington to work on appropriate legislation to correct injustices that might be done to individual businesses," by anti-trust lawyers.

Washington Girls Win Prizes

The rural ticket sales contest in connection with the annual style show was won by two Washington high school girls, it was announced today.

They are Juanita Billings who will receive a dress from the Penny Store and Vesta Jean Saunders who will receive a necklace from Moon's Jewelry.

The awards will be presented on the stage of the Saenger at 8 o'clock Saturday night by C. A. Armitage, C of C manager and Eddie Holland, manager of the theater.

The show in performance and attendance was the most successful ever held here. It was directed by Mrs. Virginia Hosmer and sponsored by the Hope Federation of Garden clubs in cooperation with local merchants.

Public Health Films to Be Shown at City Hall

Pictures, some in technicolor, for the betterment of public health will be shown at Hope City Hall auditorium Saturday, March 11, at 7:45 p. m. The films are free to everyone. The public is invited.

New Costumes for Cast of Minstrel

Arrangements have been made for complete new costumes for the cast of the Minstrel which the Kiwanis club will produce here, March 16 and 17 at the High school.

The show, under the direction of Emmet Thompson, is completely new and has many new faces this year. The makeup department has done its job so well that it will be difficult for the audience to recognize cast members.

Its going to be fun galore featuring everything that makes up a good minstrel show. There also will be many new specialty acts including numbers by the McFadden school of dance, quartets and comedy teams.

There are 17 queen contestants selling tickets which are reported to be going good. Each ticket counts 1000 votes for your favorite "queen."

Laborites Win First Round

London, March 10 — (P) — Britain's Labor government squeaked past its first major parliamentary last night. But the uneasy Laborites face fresh trouble in another crucial vote Monday.

By a 14-vote margin, 310 to 296, Prime Minister Attlee's Socialists beat back a Conservative motion aimed against the impending nationalization of the iron and steel industry. A defeat would have forced the government to resign only two weeks after it won a second term in a close general election.

Still ahead of the government — house of commons was cut yesterday to only six seats — is a vote Monday on another Conservative motion. This declares the government's failure to suggest housing program improvements in the speech it prepared for King George to deliver at parliament's opening last Monday.

Private Power Hurls Charges at SPA

Washington, March 10 — (P) — Officials of 16 private power companies in the Southwest in testimony to a house appropriations subcommittee have charged government agencies with taking illegal steps to increase their distribution and sales of electricity.

The Southwestern Power administration, a unit of the interior department, was the special target of the witnesses, who criticized its dealings with the rural electrification administration.

The private utility executives appeared before the subcommittee (Feb. 14) during its consideration of funds for operation of the REA in the fiscal year starting July 1. The testimony was made public today.

Frank M. Wilkes, president of the Southwestern Gas and Electric Co., Shreveport, La., testified that neither his concern nor any of the other companies represented at the hearing posed funds for rural electrification.

But, he read a provision of the REA act which authorizes the administrator to make loans to states, territories, cooperatives and other public bodies, then added:

"It will be noted that the federal government is not included in the list of agencies that can be beneficiaries under this act."

U. S. Having Trouble Lining Up Scientists

Washington, March 1 — (P) — Lining up the needed scientists, particularly foreigners, apparently is one of the big worries in the new hydrogen bomb program.

The problem may involve such issues as:

1. Setting up safeguards against another Fuchs spy case.
2. Deciding whether the H-bomb effort shall be partial or full-scale.
3. Draining scientists from universities and industry to an extent that might cripple the training of the physicists of the future.
4. Making another deal with Britain.
5. Amending the atomic energy law.
6. Opposition of some scientists to going ahead with the super H-bomb now.

15th Accidental Death in State This Week

El Dorado, March 10 — (P) — Perry Mason, 28, of the Hope-El Dorado community, died here yesterday of injuries suffered when he was struck by a falling log in lumbering operations Wednesday. His was the 15th death from accident of violence in Arkansas this week.

Democrats Give Up on Proposed Tax Increase

Washington, March 10 — (P) — Democratic tax law writers today apparently abandoned any idea of $1,000,000,000 net increase in taxes, as proposed by President Truman.

Instead, it looks as though they may approve a tax bill:

1. Slashing excise levies by about $1,000,000,000. Mr. Truman has proposed that such a cut be held to $655,000,000.
2. Picking up about $1,000,000,000 by increased collections in other directions. The President proposed that a $655,000,000 excise cut be offset — and that an additional $1,000,000,000 be collected — through plugging of tax law loopholes and by new levies on big corporations, inheritances and large gifts.

The new tax bill is not expected to make any changes in individual income tax rates.

Rent Control Question Unsettled

Washington, March 10 — (P) — The question of extending rent controls another year was still up in the air today.

The senate late yesterday voted to extend the rent control act until June 30, when the present rent law expires.

At the same time, they voted him $2,600,000 and told him to use it in preparation for closing up shop on that date.

Between now and then, they said, congress can reach a decision on whether to continue controls.

The two provisions were included in a $758,729,000 money bill to keep various government agencies in funds for the rest of the 1950 fiscal year ending June 30. That amount was $26,244,000 more than approved by the house — despite the efforts of senate economy advocates to trim the total.

A threat to rent control was written into the house bill by the senate appropriations committee. Instead of granting Woods the $3,600,000 he had asked to continue operations this year, the committee recommended giving him $1,000,000 less with orders to use the money for "terminal leave" payments — in other words, to pay off and let go the 4,000 rent control workers.

Browning Accepts Call to Walnut St. Church of Christ

The Walnut Street Church of Christ announces that they have secured the services of Lynn Browning as minister, beginning Sunday, March 12.

The Walnut Street Congregation began meeting on Feb. 19, and has grown to the present membership of 88. This congregation is meeting temporarily in the Woodman Hall over the Employment office. Plans are being pushed to secure a suitable building site on which to erect an adequate church building.

The Browning family is living at 806 W. 6th street.

Group to Let Sen. McCarthy Outline Charges

Washington, March 8 — (P) — State investigators today put Senator McCarthy (R-Wis.) on notice that they will expect him to present the files on which he based his charges of Communist infiltration in the state department.

Chairman Tydings (D-Md.) said the senate foreign relations committee is investigating the charges will want McCarthy to compare with information the group intends to get from government agencies.

Tydings told McCarthy to let his files talk. He said the committee are not produced voluntarily, they may subpoena them.

Tydings gave McCarthy notice about the files when the second day of hearings began. More than 200 spectators were crowded into the senate caucus room.

Minutes later, the committee into the same sort of situation that characterized its opening.

Senator McMahon (D-Conn.) demanded that McCarthy produce for immediate inspection all the information he has about "Case 14" — McCarthy has been referring to some individuals in this manner — not using their names. He said "Case 14" is a disloyal person who was kept on state department rolls through intervention of a high official.

Washington, March 10 — (P) — Senator McCarthy (R-Wis.) worked day on a number of important cases" which he continued to back up his charges that the communist spy ring is operating in the state department.

The senate foreign relations committee, which is investigating his accusations, said McCarthy's case is in recess until Monday.

Carthy said he believes he has outlined his case. He said he has five hours then "I am interrupted."

The committee voted late today to let McCarthy continue his work on the case.

"I will present a number of important cases and will name names in each case," McCarthy told reporters. "In some instances I will make the names public. Others I probably will give names to the committee in confidence."

The committee has invited McCarthy to a public hearing Tuesday to make a formal statement to charges McCarthy has filed her. The Wisconsin lawyer made two days ago that Miss Kenyon, former United States member of the United Nations commission, was affiliated with at least one Communist-front organization.

Miss Kenyon, also a former New York City judge, already called McCarthy a cowardly man for "taking refuge in his personal immunity to smear innocent people."

Yesterday she asked the committee for an opportunity to "take back Senator McCarthy's outrageous and malicious charges about me."

In granting her request, committee also voted to give McCarthy a chance to reply to McCarthy's contention that "an unusual attack for Communist cases," McCarthy also in Jessup's opinion is a "subversive organization."

Jessup, who is out of the country, did not ask for a hearing. Senator Tydings (D-Md.) said the committee chairman and a group had decided that all against whom McCarthy has charged should be given a chance to talk back in public.

Tydings said Jessup will heard Tuesday or Wednesday has returned to Washington.

Otherwise he will testify when he is ready, if he wants to. At two days of public hearing thus far, McCarthy finished lining only his case No. 1 — against Miss Kenyon.

Hempstead Native Succumbs at Nashville

Funeral services for J. A. an 82-year-old Hempstead, Ark., who died Wednesday at his home in Nashville, were held at 2 p. m. at Blaken with Rev. Olan Cemetery.

Survivors include a brother, E. Clingan, a sister Mrs. David, and a son, Lee Clingan, of Blaken.

Bulletin

Washington, March 10 — (P) — The state department today announced that it has received information that a group of persons are planning to travel to Washington for a similar session with senators and businessmen of that area.

SPRING HILL MEETING — Lengthy discussions were held by the above group Monday night on possible conversion of some farms to potato production as an important cash crop and laying plans for a watermelon festival this year. This was the second in a series of meetings throughout the county. Next Monday night a local group will go to Washington for a similar session with senators and businessmen of that area.

Situation in Business Now Looks Even

By SAM DAWSON
New York, March 9 (AP)—Some of the big boys are coming in now with their earnings reports, adding pleasant surprise to the general business picture. It may be a sweet and sour sauce, because many of the reports are showing high profits, but the picture is running counter to the general gloom without their industries.

The overall outlook seems still evenly divided. Just now the pessimists are doing the most talking about it. But there are plenty of encouraging prospects, too. And the picture may come in the next few days ahead in what course the trade takes. Look at the steel trade.

For instance, the jobless now are more than any time since the war. But while unemployment rose during February, because more workers entered the labor market, at the same time the number of those holding jobs didn't change much. Employment is just about as high as ever.

Some auto companies report that sales records were set in February. General Motors and Studebaker are among the companies with record profits. Used car dealers say the spring sales pick-up is already under way.

But, the Chrysler plants are struck. And the union says it is going to ask General Motors to raise wages and pensions. A labor showdown in the auto industry could upset the whole picture.

Steel production dropped sharply near the end of the coal strike, but most steelmen think the backlog of orders will keep them going into the fall. However, if serious strikes occur in the plants of their major customers, the backlog might dwindle.

Many more steel companies report profits falling than find them rising. But the two giants in the field, U. S. Steel and Bethlehem, are among those with higher earnings, and their big totals sweeten the way for the industry as a whole.

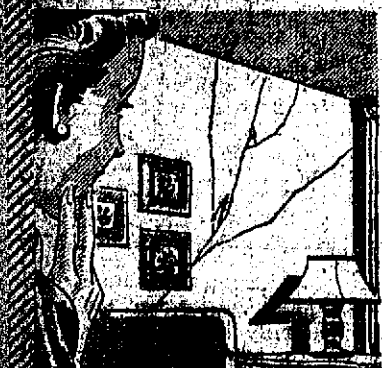

Two of the leaders in the chemical group are on the sweet side. Du Pont, the world's largest report record, sales that topped $1 billion last year for the first time. Net income also exceeded the previous year.

Allied chemical and dye, third largest of the chemicals, reports record earnings.

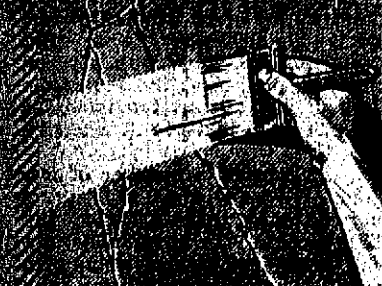

Retail sales are perhaps the biggest question mark in the weeks just ahead. The spring pick-up is already getting underway. But whether sales go as high as they should in a prosperous year, or hold little above last year's disappointing level.

MORE POWER FOR MISSOURI BASIN—The above Newsmap shows 230,000-volt "backbone" of the vast, federally-owned power network which Assistant Secretary of Interior William E. Warne says will soon cover 10 Missouri Basin states (light portion of map). "Backbone" indicated on map by power stations, will run from Garrison, N. D., to "Sioux City, Omaha or perhaps further south." It will return, Warne said, along the eastern boundaries of North and South Dakota. Main line will be interconnected with small feeder lines by which government can deliver some 2,500,000 kilowatts of power to "main load point" throughout the basin. Warne said basic power supplies in the next 10 years will come from Army engineer dams at Fort Randall, Garrison, and Fort Peck. Already under construction along the "Big Muddy" is a flood-control levee system stretching from Sioux City to St. Louis.

FINGERPRINTS Don't Lie

By Rupert Hughes
Copyright 1950 by Rupert Hughes
Dist. by NEA SERVICE, INC.

THE STORY: After Azalea Palmer found her father with his skull crushed by a desk telephone, Los Angeles police suspect her fiance, the sculptor Paul Moody, who was in a disfavor with the wealthy murder victim, Wendell Palmer. Police detectives James Stivers and Pete Kelso have gone to Moody's studio to obtain fingerprints to compare with those found on the telephone.

IX

DETECTIVE JAMES STIVERS opened his kit and set to work, while Detective Pete Kelso wandered about, ogling the statues and emitting wolf whistles at some of the more helpless beauties eternally caught half-dressed or less than that.

Finally Kelso wandered over to the desk where Sculptor Paul Moody kept his files and his correspondence. Kelso sat down, opened a drawer and began to rifle its contents.

But Stivers went to him and said:

"In the first place you've got no legal right to inspect these papers; and in the second place, I can see this desk. I've got to write some labels for these prints, and I might as well write a lot of them at once."

Kelso hoisted himself reluctantly out of the chair and sat on a marble bench a little aloof; but he watched Stivers with a fascinated and baleful eye.

After the Scientific Investigation Division man had photographed a goodly number of prints and recorded them, or simply lifted them with tapes, he glanced up there and his shaving mirror and soap and other things ought to give some perfect specimens. I think I'll go up and lift a few."

Taking with him his camera, a spool of tape, his pile of dusting powder and brushes, Stivers climbed the steps and disappeared from Kelso's sight—as Kelso did from his.

WHEN Stivers came back down the steps, Kelso was at the opposite end of the great studio minutely examining Paul Moody's complex model for the National Electric Building.

Stivers could not see him at first but at the sound of his steps Kelso came out from behind the model. He tried to crush his beaming smile into a look of compassion.

"Too bad this guy Moody won't never finish that job."

"Too bad!" said Stivers and sat at the desk to finish his work. He was just making his last records in his notebook and packing his kit for departure, when he heard a footstep.

He looked up and saw a man whom he assumed to be Paul Moody. The man who entered looked like a sculptor. He looked like sculpture. His head and features seemed modeled with keen knowledge of bony structures and as if with pride in them. His long hours in the hot sun beating on tennis courts had tanned him till he had almost the look of bronze. His features were set in a stern and fixed expression of anger and wonder at the intrusion, but his eyes were alive and gleaming.

His shoulders were square, his torso solid and powerful, and the hand that held the cigar he had just taken from his surprised lips was a potent hand, a hand that Stivers had been coming to know very well from its fingerprints.

But to make sure of the man's identity Stivers said:

"Who are you?"

"Who are you?" came the echo in a belligerent voice. "This happens to be my studio."

"You Moody?" said Kelso.

Food Variety Guard Against Poor Nutrition

Home demonstration agent, Mrs. Lorraine Blackwood, advises Hempstead county homemakers to check up on food habits. What the family eats has a great deal to do with the way the members feel.

Families that can answer "yes" to the questions below would make a good score on food habits, a step in the direction of good health.

At this season of the year when fresh vegetables and fruits are scarce, it is well that all check especially on these foods. Does the daily diet include a green or yellow vegetable, plus potatoes? Are all members of the family eating tomatoes, tomato juice, or citrus fruits every day?

Are all the children drinking a quart of milk and the adults at least a pint daily? Does every member of the family get an egg a day in some form? Is every member eating a serving of lean meat daily, including liver or other glandular meats at least once a week?

What about cereals and breads eaten by the family? Are they whole grain or enriched? Is butter or fortified margarine eaten daily by all members of the family? Does the family make much use of fruits, custards, and simple sweets instead of rich desserts to satisfy the sweet tooth? Does the family refrain from eating many starchy foods?

Eggs in this modern age are "candied" by electricity, that is an electric bulb is used to supply the light needed to do the grading.

The cardinal is the official bird of seven states.

Gives Birth to Triplet, 'Little Tired'

Johesville, La., March 10 (UP)—A tiny fisherman's wife who produced one fifth her weight in babies over three days said she was a "little tired" today.

Dr. J. A. Nasif said he wondered Mrs. Lester Hardy, his 92-pound patient dealt a five-pound son, six-pound daughter and seven-pound daughter on separate, successive days in what the doctor modestly called a "most unusual" genetic chain reaction.

Tall, 35-year-old Hardy, who already had seven children and sinus trouble, was too stunned to comment. He did refuse to have his picture taken "in my overalls," and he wasn't about to go all the way back to their houseboat to change clothes.

Mrs. Hardy, who is 36, gave normal birth to a five-pound son Tuesday at the doctor's little clinic. Wednesday morning Dr. Nasif induced more labor. That called for a six-pound daughter.

Early yesterday, he induced labor again. Mrs. Hardy then had a seven-pound daughter.

Dr. Nasif said the babies all were full-term and that Mrs. Hardy was in good shape, though "a bit peaked." The first and third children were identical twins from the same placenta, and the second was a "fraternal twin" from another placenta.

Mrs. Hardy's aunt, who assisted at less impressive productions, was to have named the three little strangers. But Mrs. Hardy jumped the gun and named the boy Jodie Lee and the girls Julia Fay and Judy Mae.

Hardy's commercial fishing business has been poor lately because of floods. Townspeople suggested he call the children Ouachita, Little and Tensas after the rivers that caused the high water.

"By God," said the neighbor with 10 children, "she caught up with me in three days."

Truman May Show Up at Chicago Rally

Washington, March 10 (AP)—The Democratic party's biggest name—Harry Truman—may show up at a monster political rally scheduled for Chicago in mid-May.

The President told his news conference yesterday that he hopes to leave on a western trip May 1 which would take him clear to the state of Washington. He mentioned the possibility that he might attend the three-day Chicago meeting, which starts May 13.

Democratic leaders, including governors, are being invited to the big party affair from every state. It's expected to be one of the largest political gatherings ever held outside a national party convention.

If Mr. Truman drops in he's expected to do so on the last day, May 15, while on his way back from the Pacific coast.

Political doings took up a large part of the White House news conference.

The President told reporters he won't take part in any primary battles for senate seats, but he is expected to wage a hard-hitting campaign against Republican candidates on a second trip later in the year.

Earlier yesterday, Secretary of the Interior Chapman said Mr. Truman had accepted an invitation to attend the dedication of the Grand Coulee dam in Washington in May. Chapman said the President might also attend a similar ceremony at Wyoming's Kortes dam.

The cabinet official added that the May trip, if it takes place, will be as non-political as a presidential journey can be.

Mr. Truman told reporters he has no plans for a visit to California, at least during May.

He was asked whether the appointment of Martin A. Hutchinson, Richmond, Va., lawyer, to the federal trade commission indicated a trend toward more top appointments for "Southern Truman men."

The President replied that he expects to appoint qualified people on whom he can depend, and added that he is sure there are more of such men in the south.

Hutchinson was an unsuccessful candidate in 1946 for the senate seat held by Harry F. Byrd (D-Va.) an outspoken administration critic.

African Native Chief and His Wife Have Suddenly Become Big British Issue

By DeWITT MacKENZIE
AP Foreign Affairs Analyst

The romance of the young Oxford-educated Negro chief of the south African Barmangwats, who made a white London tycoon his queen, has suddenly become an imperial issue and put the British government on a most uncomfortable spot.

The 27-year-old chief Seretse Khama, ruler over 150,000 subjects in Bechuanaland, married Ruth Williams, 24, in London some months ago and took her to his clay-hut capital as queen. You wouldn't think that was anything to worry the empire upon which the sun never sets, but events soon proved any such idea to be fallacious.

The great union of South Africa, which is a neighbor of Bechuanaland, has constantly before it the burning issue of segregation of the white and Negro races. The case of chief Seretse Khama and his white queen suddenly got entangled in this broader question—and the young couple were in trouble.

The British government invited Seretse to London recently to discuss his status. The government decided that it couldn't recognize him as chief because of what was described as tendencies to disruption which threatened the protectorate. He was told that he couldn't return to his state, without permission, until the issue of tribal rule is settled years hence.

The chief blew up over that. He said he had been tricked. His wife was in Africa and they were expecting a baby. He declared in effect that come hell or high water he was going back to his wife and people. He cabled the queen to sit tight.

The scene then shifted to the meal planning is only one link—and at the end of the chain. It must be followed in producing as well as in serving food.

During much of the year the preserved food is the connecting link between the garden, the orchard, and the table. Mrs. Blackwood points out. A good food preservation plan will give the kinds and amounts of preserved foods the family needs. "Arkansas Farm Family Food Supply Plan," an extension publication sets up the Basic 7 Foods to preserve and how much. By using such a plan, a family can be sure of having a variety of foods.

"If you can or freeze most of your food," Mrs. Blackwood explains, "you should follow the recommended canning (or freezing) plan."

By following a plan, the food preserved will probably be of a higher quality. Both canned and frozen foods lose food value when stored for more than a year. Preserving more than is needed is often a waste of food, time and food value.

The local county extension office can supply you with the kind of plan you need, the home demonstration agent stated.

Poman on Trial for Slaying

Frankfurt, Germany, March 10 (UP)—A firearms expert identified the .45 caliber service automatic today with which Mrs. Yvett Madsen is accused of killing her air force lieutenant husband.

After the testimony of the expert George A. Gordon, the trial recessed for three hours to give the prosecution time to find a missing witness.

While the session lasted, however, the three-man U. S. District court hearing the case agreed to relax the suicide guard which has been kept on the 22-year-old Brooklyn beauty from fear she would kill herself.

Mrs. Madsen's attorney, Elmo Gower, opened the session with a strong protest against the guard. He said he wanted to confer in private with his client when the defense opens its case, which is expected soon.

The court up to now has barred private conferences, ruling that a third person must be present at all their conferences. "I will be extremely reluctant to rest the defense until I have been able to see my client alone," Gower told the court.

The court then designated at where Mrs. Madsen could confer confidentially with Gower.

More Cold Weather

By The Associated Press
Winter's icy grip held fast over wide areas of the eastern half of the country today and no immediate warming appeared. More cold air pushed into the country from western and central Canada.

High winds continued over much of northeastern region but they were expected to diminish during the day. Gusts up to 45 miles an hour swept New York City and temperatures dropped far below freezing.

The cold air pushed south over the Carolinas and into northern Alabama, northern Georgia and over Tennessee and Mississippi. Parts of Florida got some of the cool air and early today Miami's flow was 52.

The winds in New York City blew down signs, trees and wires. Five building cornices loosened by the winds were removed by police.

A blizzard snarled traffic in up state New York and was blamed for at least three deaths. Snow blocked nearly all roads in St. Lawrence country on the Canadian border.

CHEF KILLED IN CRASH

Little Rock, March 8 (AP)—Fire Chief W. E. Malia of Augusta was killed today when his automobile overturned on Highway 87 about 10 miles north of here. Malia, who was 57, was alone, state police reported.

Mrs. Sammie Wright won the surprise package.

The next club meeting will be April 8 at the home of Mrs. Dale Hunt.

DOROTHY DIX Awkward Stage

Dear Miss Dix: I am a girl 16 years old. I am ugly, sky, awkward. Can't swim, skate, dance. My clothes look clumsy on me. I never had a date and when I am near a boy I get tongue-tied. I am pale and tired all the time and have no energy. I lie awake at night worrying and longing to be like other girls. Isn't there some place where I can learn to swim and dance, and how to be charming and graceful?

DISCOURAGED

Answer: A summer camp for girls is the remedy you need. Go to one for the whole summer and, unless there is something organically wrong with you, you will come back well and strong, and with a different outlook on life. I have seen so many girls actually made over by a couple of months at a summer camp.

Will Learn Adaptability
In the camp you will be thrown intimately with other girls and that will do more than anything else to cure you of your shyness and teach you how to be adaptable and companionable. The right food and the proper exercise will improve your looks by improving your health, and you will learn how to play the games and do the things that other young people do so that you will fit into any crowd. And you will get away from your family for a while, which is a good thing both for you and the family. All girls and boys should be sent away from home at 16 if their parents can possibly afford it, because at that time they get upon each other's nerves.

The mere fact that you recognize your defects and are anxious to set about curing them is a practical guarantee that you will succeed. For the only people who are hopeless are those who are so conceited that they are blind to their faults. At 16 you are still young enough to be plastic and you can practically make yourself what you will.

Don't despair because you are unattractive at 16. That is the ugly age. Many a girl who is an ugly duckling at 16 turns into a glorious swan by the time she is 20.

Dear Dorothy Dix: You speak of women taking an interest in their husbands' affairs — reading good books and keeping themselves well informed in current events so as not to fall below their husbands' standards of intelligence. What about the husbands who do not keep up with their wives, who never read anything but the headlines and the comic strips in the papers or a detective story? What about the men who slump intellectually after marriage?

DISGUSTED WIFE

Answer: What is sauce for the goose is sauce for the gander, and if marriage is to be made a success it is just as important for the husband to make himself an interesting companion to his wife

Two Perish in Illinois Hotel Fire

Benton, Ill., March 10 (AP)—A fire destroyed the 72-room Montecito hotel on Benton's public square today, taking a reported toll of two lives.

Fire Chief Marvin Hobbs of Benton identified the victims as Mita Eliff, a nearly blind, elderly coal miner, and George Sumner, about 55, a former carnival worker. Both lived in third-floor rooms in the rear of the hotel.

Mrs. Amy Groverman, who owned the hotel building, telephoned guests in their rooms then started to check the rooms personally only to be trapped by the flames herself.

Firemen rescued her from an upper story window, bringing her down a ladder.

Another guest fled headfirst, together and slid down the side of the three-story hotel.

All other guests were unharmed and safe.

Mrs. Groverman said she believed there were 20 persons injured. She said that all records were burned.

as it is for her to be good company to him.

Of course, therefore, the idea has always been that a woman spending most of their time in their own homes and having fewer outside contacts with the world than men, must make an effort to keep up with their husbands. But nowadays, what with the majority of girls staying in schools as long as boys, and most women belonging to study clubs and book clubs, the shoe is on the other foot, and it is husbands who have to make an effort to keep up with their wives.

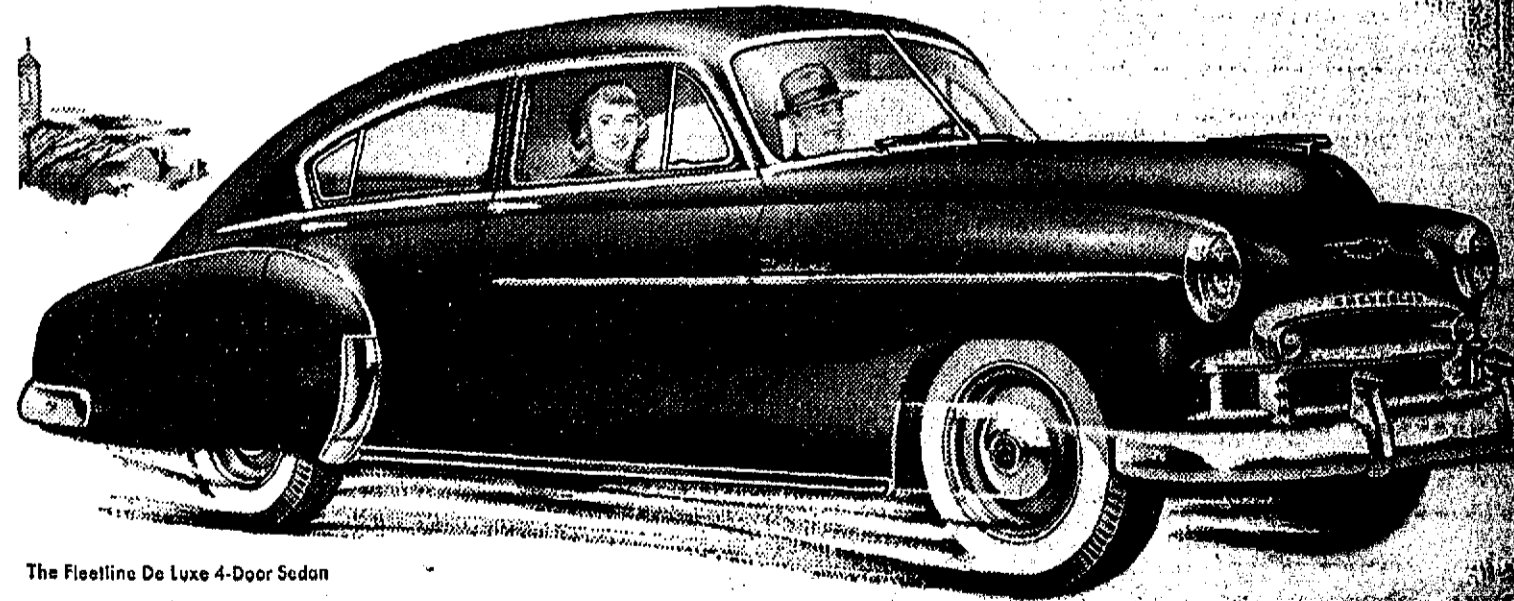

But in any case husbands and wives should try to grow together, to keep step with each other, for it is a tragedy when either outgrows the other.

Dear Miss Dix: I am engaged to a young man who is everything that is fine and desirable, but says that while he is deeply in love with me, he loves his mother better than he loves me. I am not sure of my marriage, but I am sure if I have the feeling that I take second place to my husband's heart. Should I overlook this for all of his virtues, or would it make a difference?

UNDECIDED

Answer: Before I married, I was just how much of a mother complex he really has, and particularly about how much his mother encourages him in his making this center of his universe. If it is one of the women who determined always to be first with their sons, then I should say him stay with mother. She never cut her apron strings, he will always be more married to mother than to his wife.

'When Willie Comes Marching Home' New Role for Dailey

Musical Star Cast in War Role at Saenger

Great news for film fans in the Saenger Theatre's next attraction, "When Willie Comes Marching Home," opening Sunday with this 20th Century-Fox Picture the master director of drama, John Ford turns his veteran hand to the creation of one of the season's most eagerly anticipated comedies.

Willie of "When Willie Comes Marching Home" is the popular young star Dan Dailey, and he is the subject of one of the freshest and most ingeniously comic ideas ever to be made the basis of a motion picture. For in it Dan plays a strictly home town boy who patriotically is the first to enlist in the army upon the declaration of war, but just can't get overseas.

Much as Bill Kluggs tries he is rated too good a gunnery instructor to be spare for combat. Worst of all, while all the other boys in Bill's home town of Sumatunawey are going off to war, Bill suffers the ignominy of being stationed as an instructor in his own home town to his great chagrin, the town's first hero becomes, in the town's mind, its first-class slacker and gold-brick through no fault of Bill's own.

Finally, though, Bill's big break comes, and he goes on a whirlwind expedition to Europe; within a few days he flies the Atlantic, is dropped over France, joins the Underground, escapes to London, with Nazi secrets, is returned to Washington for top-secret conferences, and before he knows it, is back home on furlough. Nobody believes he was even away, it all happens so quickly. And it looks as though Bill is still to be in the town's disgrace. But the Washington sends for him to be decorated, and this time when Willie comes marching home, he is a great hero.

Co-starred with the ingratiating Dan Dailey in the title part are glamorous Corinne Calvet who made her American debut in "Rope of Sand" and who here plays a French Underground leader, and lovely Colleen Townsend who has the role of Willie's childhood sweetheart, the girl next door.

Featured as Willie's father is the veteran comedian William Demarest. Bill has worked with another great director, Preston Sturges, supporting cast includes James Lydon, Lloyd Corrigan and Evelyn Varden, the Broadway actress who distinguished herself in Darryl F. Zanuck's "Pinky".

Final Rites Held for Albert LeBrun

Paris, March 10 (AP)—Funeral services were held in Notre Dame cathedral today for Albert LeBrun, wartime president of France, with top ranking military, diplomatic and government officials present.

All national honors were accorded him, including a double rank of guards, in full dress costume, swords drawn. The casket was draped with the tricolor flag of France.

The body will be taken tomorrow to Mercy-le-Haut, in Lorraine, for burial.

Bogart Goes on Rampage in 'Tokyo Joe'

"Tokyo Joe", with Humphrey Bogart raiding the Tokyo underworld in one of the greatest romantic rough-and-tumbles he has ever brought to the screen, opens Sunday at the Rialto Theatre.

Alexander Knox, Florence Marly and Sessue Hayakawa are also starred in the film, which Hollywood has compared more favorably to the "memorable" "Casablanca."

According to advance report, "Tokyo Joe" can be likened to "Casablanca" in a number of ways, but specific reference is made to the fact that the new Columbia picture possesses far more excitement, far more violence. But the same immediacy of theme is said to be present, the same high romance, the same type of vivid, unusual background.

In "Tokyo Joe", Bogart is seen as an Air Corps hero returned to the Tokyo he himself had helped bomb, in order to take up his life where it had left off before Pearl Harbor. There is, though, the one difference in his return: he believes that his wife has died in a Japanese concentration camp. He finds her, instead, alive and well, divorced from him and married to an American attorney living in Tokyo. They have a daughter.

Blonde, Czech-born Miss Marly in her second American film achieves star stature as the night club torch singer who helped her daughter — and Bogart's — live through the war by broadcasting treason for the Japanese. It is this action which motivates the punch-packed drama, which involves "Tokyo Joe" in a battle against post-war mobsters seeking to blackmail him into smuggling war criminals back to Nippon. Knox is said to be equally fine as the American attorney, who does what he can to protect his wife and who challenges her ex-husband to win her back — if he can.

Long absent from Hollywood, silent screen star Sessue Hayakawa is the major "menace" of "Tokyo Joe", an implacable Japanese crime baron, still fighting a private war and using every weapon at his command to win it. Lesser roles are ably portrayed by Jerome Courtland and Gordon Jones, as former Army pilots working with Bogart.

Stuart Heister directed "Tokyo Joe" from the screen play by Cyril Hume and Bertram Millhauser. Robert Lord produced the Santana Production.
